MOLINARO: THIS IS LEADERSHIP?

Statement from Assemblyman Marc Molinaro (R,C,I-Red Hook) regarding senate's vacation during budget negotiations

With a budget that is now 90 days late and in the midst of a state fiscal crisis, the people of New York deserve to know who is inhibiting progress and stalling budget negotiations: the senate democratic leadership. In the midst of budget negotiations, the senate majority leader announced this evening that his conference would be adjourning for an extended holiday vacation weekend. That may be welcome news for senate democrats and their families, but it is bad news for taxpayers as well as legislators who remain in Albany to do the people's work. What started out as three men in a room progressed to two men in a room and is now one man in a room.
